5 REASONS WHY THIS MATTERS

1. Circumstances are dire for many right now. The policies of the next government will directly impact services that affect the quality of life of vulnerable people.
2. Non-profits in Mississauga, Brampton, and Caledon know from experience that a “people first” or “bottom up” approach is the only approach to ensure that the people we serve will be fully supported.
3. Peel will see substantial impact from the coming challenges. Our communities are more racialized and newer to Canada, and Peel’s job market is particularly vulnerable to tariffs. So we need solutions that work for everyone.
4. To make sure people in Peel have what they need, our communities and our community based services need support. Healthy communities are necessary for businesses to be productive, and a strong social infrastructure supports this.
5. Speaking up in this election to make sure our next Federal government addresses these pressing issues is important so we are ensuring our communities have the information, access, and tools necessary to meaningfully participate in this election. We believe this support will make the difference, contributing to a real turning point in voter engagement.
